The Tangerine Orange

Pure orange diamonds are exceptionally rare, so rare that only one important Fancy Vivid Orange Diamond has come to auction in the past five years.

The One and Only One™ Pear-shaped Fancy Vivid Yellow-Orange Diamond is a luscious tangerine color, combining maximum saturation with excellent clarity (VS2). It is set on a ring in platinum, with two tapered diamond baguettes.

“Here is a rare Fancy Color Diamond for the woman who knows what she wants,” said Joe Padulo, CEO of Padulo Privé, and an adviser to high-end jewelers and luxury brands. “The Tangerine is a bold, one-of-a-kind treasure...and a brilliant investment opportunity.”

The Aqua Blue

Blue diamonds are among the most desired diamonds on earth; in fact, a Fancy Vivid Blue Diamond holds the record for the world's most valuable gemstone.

The One and Only One™ Cushion-cut Fancy Greenish Blue Diamond is a mesmerizing aqua blue color. Set in 18K rose gold, it is surrounded by Argyle Pink diamonds from Western Australia.

“The Aqua Blue is a magnificent Fancy Greenish Blue Diamond, which will have special appeal to connoisseurs of the extraordinary,” said Padulo.

The Decade of the Fancy Color Diamond

Rare Natural Color Diamonds have increased in value exponentially in the last 10 years, often by double digits year over year. According to leading trade organizations, auction houses and expert diamentaires, rare Fancy Pink and Fancy Blue diamonds have led the way, growing by well over 300 percent on average and outperforming most other asset classes in the same period.
